PULL A CARD

300-Question Bank

Everyday reflection, deeper self-awareness, and personalized inner navigation

A practical reflective layer for the Human Operating System

Version 2 | 300 prompts | English

Implementation Brief

Purpose

Pull a Card is not designed as a random inspirational deck. It is a lightweight reflective engine that can meet a user in ordinary daily life and, when appropriate, open a deeper path into patterns, needs, values, relationships, decisions, behavior, and growth.

How the bank should be used

The system should select a card based on context when context is available, rather than relying only on random rotation. Relevant signals may include life-domain focus, recent check-ins, mood, repeated themes, user goals, recent conversations, journaling, and current platform activity. A card may remain simple and present-focused or become a doorway into Main Chat, Journal, Mirror Room, or Decision Room.

Recommended metadata per card

Topic: SELF / FEEL / PATTERNS / NEEDS / LOVE / COURAGE / BODY / NEXT / CREATE / LIFE

Life Domain: Relationships / Family / Work-Career / Finance / Health / Personal Growth / Leisure / Spirituality / Emotional Well-being

Core: Emotion / Need / Value / Boundary / Belief / Behavior / Pattern / Goal / Identity

Depth: Light / Everyday / Reflect / Deep

Mode: Notice / Ask / Choose / Remember / Act

State: Grounding / Curiosity / Clarity / Challenge / Expansion / Connection

Suggested Route: Stay on Card / Journal / Main Chat / Mirror Room / Decision Room

Selection principle

Not every card should feel therapeutic or emotionally demanding. The experience should move naturally between light everyday awareness and deeper reflection. A Tuesday-afternoon card can be about time, energy, home, social media, a difficult message, money, a task being avoided, joy, or a conversation that stayed with the user. Depth should feel earned, not imposed.

Generation rules for future cards

Keep prompts short, human, specific enough to land, and open enough to reveal something. Avoid diagnosis, certainty about hidden causes, moralizing, spiritual claims presented as facts, or language that tells the user what they must be feeling. Prefer one clear question over multi-part interrogation. Reflective depth can be informed by therapeutic and symbolic frameworks in the backend while remaining universal and non-clinical in the user experience.

What changed in Version 2

The original 200-question bank was expanded to 300. The additional layer intentionally brings in more ordinary life: home, family, workdays, digital habits, time, energy, money, errands, social connection, small decisions, rest, play, unfinished tasks, and micro-actions. This makes the deck useful not only for deep reflection, but for real daily companionship.
